THE F. E. C. R'Y WILL GO TO KEY WEST.

After His Trip Over The Extension H. M. Flagler Decides to Push To Completion.

AMERICA IN THE LIME LIGHT.

After Mr. Flagler's trip of inspection, reports of which was made in recent issues of the Daily News, he (given out the information that he will push the extension to Key West his original objective point, as rapidly as possible. Mr. Flagler is quoted as having expressed himself as highly pleased with the condition of his new road bed from Homestead to Knights Key and his order to General Manager J. R. Parrott and E. T. Gee to take immediate steps looking toward the building of the road from Knights Key to Key West, something over forty miles, is proof of his satisfaction with the work so far accomplished. There are no difficulties in construction work between Knights Key and Key West that have not already been met and overcome in that portion of the extension completed. The longest open space is between Knights Key and Pahia Honda, where there will be at least three miles of concrete work with long reaches of fill. An important change has been decided on in the form of concrete work. The huge arches of the Long Key viaduct will give place to the Pahia Honda channel to very substantial and solid concrete piers upon which will rest the superstructure. This method of construction will expedite the completion of the work and will also be quite as substantial and satisfactory as the concrete arch work. At the present time about one thousand men are at work on the keys, but this force will be increased to two thousand five hundred when final operations begin.

The definite announcement that the extension is to be carried through to Key West will be heralded with great delight, not alone by the people of Florida but by the whole country. This piece of railway has come to be recognized as no ordinary transportation route. The eyes of the nation are upon the undertaking and it will be a source of great satisfaction to the country at large to know that Mr. Flagler intends to carry to a successful issue one of the most wonderful operations of modern times.

If this road is built—and evidently Mr. Flagler is going to put millions into the effort—it will be one of the most wonderful achievements of modern engineering, an all-rail route to Key West. There are stretches of water many miles in width between many of these keys, and in some instances the water is deep and the tides rush through so as a mill race.

When completed one can sit back in easy plush chairs and speed over the wide expanse of sea with only a glimpse of an island here and there.

With such stupendous enterprises being carried successfully forward as the Flagler extension to Key West, the Panama canal, the proposed twenty foot channel from the lakes to the gulf, great irrigation schemes in the arid west, the network of railways in the great cities and buildings actually reaching to the clouds, no wonder the nations of the world are looking at America in open-mouthed wonder.

LIEUT. MILLER DIES ON OTHER SIDE.

The Sad Intelligence is Cabled Washington and Wired to Father and Brother.

HE DIED AT HIS POST OF DUTY.

The startling news of the sudden death by apoplexy of Lieutenant Louis G. Miller, son of T. Ewing Miller and brother of Ira H. Miller of Daytona and Columbus, O., has reached the father and brother and other Ohioans who knew Lt. Miller, and strikes as a thunder clap from a clear sky; no one was prepared for the shock.

His death occurred on the 12th at the marine hospital, Cavitese, Philippine Islands, where he was stationed with his command.

Lieutenant Miller was a very popular, promising and much loved officer, and had he not been stricken in young manhood would have rendered his country distinguished service. Indeed, he had already made a record in his country's service in the Spanish-American war, and in recognition of distinguished service in this war was appointed second lieutenant in the marine corps and after a year's service promoted to first lieutenant and went to Guam, where he remained two years.

At the time of his death he was stationed at Olongipo, P. I.

Lieutenant Miller was 35 years old and unmarried. He was taking high rank as presiding officer and his friends confidently expected great things of him. The announcement of his death is the more a shock for this reason.

His father, T. Ewing Miller, and his brother, Ira H. Miller, have the sympathy of their many Florida friends in their bereavement.

A REVERSAL OF THE LOWER COURT.

Judge Jones Reverses The Decision of Criminal Court of Record in Automobile Decision.

STATE VERSUS S. E. GILMORE.

(By Telephone.)

DELAND, Dec. 21.—Judge Minor S. Jones, of the Circuit Court, has reversed the decision of Criminal Court of Record in the case of the State vs. S. E. Gilmore. This was the case where Mr. Gilmore was arrested for conducting an automobile garage without a license and fined $1 and costs. The question was the interpretation of the word "garage." Judge Jones held that where a man had one or two automobiles for hire, and did no repairing for other automobiles, he did not maintain a garage, and consequently is not liable for a license under the state law. The case was a test case, and the outcome is pleasing to all persons having automobiles for hire.

R. H. EMMETT DEAD AT LA CROSS VILLA.

Came From New York State to Conduct a Winter House, But Is Called Home.

R. H. Emmett, 56 years of age, died at his home, LaCrosse Villa, on Ridgewood avenue, Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Funeral services were held at the home this afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. A. J. Wilder, of St. Mary's Episcopal church, officiating, and the interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett came to Daytona recently from New York State, and were so much pleased with the city that they leased the LaCrosse Villa with the intention of conducting a tourist hotel during the season, but late decreed that it should not be. The wife has the sympathy of the community in her bereavement.

HANDSOME YACHT HERE ARRIVED SATURDAY.

On Way to Miami From Albany Here Three Years Ago. Going Tomorrow.

The "Bowena," of Albany, N. Y., probably the finest yacht ever here this season, arrived Saturday night and is tied up at the South bridge draw.

The owner, A. McQueen, and party, are on a pleasure trip, being bound for Miami, from Albany, N. Y., where they left about five weeks ago, most of the trip being made on the outside.

The "Bowena" is about as large a boat as is usually seen here and is handsomely fitted out. The party will probably resume their voyage tomorrow.

The same boat was here three years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Lapp and children were in the city Saturday, doing some Christmas shopping.

STANDARD OIL CO. ILLUMINE PUBLIC.

Will Stick The Torch to Malicious Publishers For Their Misrepresentations.

(By United Press.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—With bold, if not brazen neuteness, the celebrities of all its policies and operations the Standard Oil Co., today issued a "warning" to its traducers.

The statement begins with apology for "publication of well founded complaint" and then launches protests and invectives against publications of false, misleading and injurious statements regarding Standard Oil matters and business associations. It hints at increased punishments for failure to take notice and heed admonitions.

Mrs Rowall Houghton and daughter, Miss Marguerite, arrived from Bainbridge, Ga., Saturday afternoon, and joined Mr. Houghton, who preceded them by several weeks, at The Gables, where they will remain spend the winter.

THE CONTEST IS NOW WIDENING.

On the East Side and Down the Coast The Interest is on The Increase.

ANOTHER FINE PRIZE HUNG UP.

An endless amount of amusement has developed from the Bush & Safford Co. piano contest and many have found it better than the minstrels. The recent coup of the Rifle boys in buying up editions of the Daily News containing the coupons with 300 votes created a sensation and the public ruled the boys out of order. They gracefully accepted the ruling, but as they are invincible will continue to ring in surprises on their unformidable rivals, the High School and the Eastern Star, from time to time. The boys say they will it emphatically understand that they are in the running and will be present at the final count, and others it by loudly remarking that all of them are fond of good piano music.

The big pianos have been shipped and are expected to arrive this week. When received they will be placed on exhibition with some Beach street firm and conspicuously placarded so that all may see in passing what the capital prizes look like.

Further than this, a little later, short piano recitals will likely be arranged, not only for the delectation of those who are buying for the piano but for the interested spectator who is looking on at a distance.

The Daily News and the Gazette-News with herewith to announce that hereafter they will give 100 votes in the piano contest for every 100 cents paid in on their book. The job department has been built up and in every way equipped to turn out high class work, and if you need anything from a business card to a booklet you can get it done artistically and quickly—that is the News' specialty, the finest work in the quickest time.

In the subscription department, so heretofore, $1.00 paid in on subscription entitles you to 500 votes. An additional offer is now made, as follows: For a club of four subscriptions 4,000, for a club of ten subscriptions 10,000 votes. This applies to the Daily News and to the Weekly Gazette News, the price of which is $1.50 for season of Daily and $1.00 the year for Weekly.

Remember, that all votes must be cast within seven days from date of issue.

Those of you who are interested in a big vote for a popular young lady should peep at the Uhrle Jewelry Store show window and see the handsome silverplated watch and brush which will go to the most popular young lady in New Years night.

This is a good time to get busy, if you have not yet finished your purchases do so and get coupons; this is a good time to secure subscriptions to the Gazette-News and to fall in line with the procession who are daily swelling the circulation of the daily.

Mrs Royall Houghton and daughter, Miss Marguerite, arrived from Benzenhurst, L. I., Sunday afternoon, and joined Mr. Houghton, who preceded them by several weeks, at The Gables, where they will, as usual, spend the winter.

THE CONTEST IS NOW WIDENING.

On the East Side and Down the Coast The Interest is on The Increase.

ANOTHER FINE PRIZE HUNG UP.

An endless amount of amusement has developed from the Bush & Safford Co. piano contest and many have found it better than the minstrels. The recent coup of the Rifle boys in buying up editions of the Daily News containing the coupons worth 500 votes created a sensation and the public ruled the boys out of order. They gracefully accepted the ruling, but as they are invincible will continue to ring in surprises on their two formidable rivals, the High School and the Eastern Star, from time to time. The boys say they wish it emphatically understood that they are in the running and will be present at the final count, and clinch it by finally remarking that all of them are fond of good piano music.

The big pianos have been shipped and are expected to arrive this week. When received they will be placed on exhibition with some Beach street firm and conspicuously placarded so that all may see in passing what the capital prizes look like.

Further than this, a little later, short piano recitals will likely be arranged, not only for the delectation of those who are honing for the piano but for the interested spectator who is looking on at a distance.

The Daily News and the Gazette-News wish herewith to announce that hereafter they will give 100 votes in the piano contest for every 100 cents paid in on job work. The job department has been built up and in every way equipped to turn out high class work, and if you need anything from a business card to a booklet you can get it done artistically and quickly—that is the News' specialty, the finest work in the quickest time.

In the subscription department, as heretofore, $1.50 paid in on subscription entitles you to 500 votes. An additional offer is now made, as follows: For a club of five subscriptions 4,000, for a club of ten subscriptions 10,000 votes. This applies to the Daily News and to the Weekly Gazette-News, the price of which is $1.50 for season of Daily and $1.50 the year for Weekly.

Remember, that all votes must be cast within seven days from date of issue.

Those of you who are interested in a big vote for a popular young lady should pause at the Clark Jewelry Store show window and see the handsome silver-mounted comb and brush which will go to the most popular young lady on New Year's night.

This is a good time to get busy; if you have not yet finished your purchases do so and get coupons; this is a good time to renew subscriptions to the Gazette-News and to fall in line with the procession who are daily swelling the circulation of the daily.

M. G. Peshek has again opened a fish market in the building on Cottage avenue recently vacated by J. F. Clark.

HUMAN VITALITY.

Cultivate and Conserve Both the Mental and the Physical.

If people realized what enormous physical and mental vitality are they would not squander them by foolishness any more readily than they squander their value and squander their life blood.

To accomplish great things we must have a strong, vigorous life force, a powerful vitality. If we do not have it everything we do will bear the stamp of weakness. It will crop out in every act. It is the strong vitality that tells in the great struggle of life. It is the reserve power that enables the runner to keep going when others fall exhausted by the way.

It is a good art to learn to accumulate conservative vitality, to store it away for future emergencies. It is success capital. You may succeed without money, but you cannot succeed without physical and mental capital. It is the strong vitality that wins. The plus force, the physical and nervous energy themselves are the things that enable one to surmount difficulties and ride triumphantly over obstacles.

It is a very shortsighted policy to try to live right up to the limit beyond its normal capacity, to force a little mind to do good work, to force it to think when it needs rest or recreation.

Many people work so much that they do not store any reserve power. They use up all the power they generate as they go along. All creative work especially requires a fresh brain, vigorous, spontaneous thought.

I have noticed that people who think they need work, every minute, who are always doing something, do not do nervous people nearly so much nor produce work of as good a quality as those who labor a great deal less and play a good deal more. In other words, their play is a great producer because it keeps the mind and body in splendid tone for work. It lubricates the faculties, reduces friction, keeps the mind fresh, sane and vigorous.

All effective work is a result of combined physical forces. A tired and overtaxed brain cannot force its ideas with full power. It is not so much a question of will power as a question of nerve energy, and that is a question of more blood; it depends upon a hundred other conditions being just right. Success Magazine.

On Heaven.

"If I could be out of physical pain," said a dying invalid, "I would ask no other heaven." "If I could be in a place where I might know that my husband never could be killed on the field, afford one of the gentle "sufferers" whose capacity for suffering is neither understood nor respected by her neighbors. "If I could take my children to a world where every tear I kept a stranger could my heart and not stand still with terror," urged another. "I would be honored for me," the infantile girl who leaned into joyful tears at first sight of a starlit host of himself "because it was white" had a dream of her heavenly welcome home.

"Heaven must be like any other form of happiness, only more so," said a thoughtful man. "And the conditions of happiness are different from everywhere, something to do and some one to love."—Elizabeth Stuart Phelps in Harper's Bazar.

They Go Together.

"Henry," said the young wife, who had been reading political matters, "how do you think I am built?"

"My dear," replied her husband fondly, "you are built like a watch."

"Indeed you, Henry. And, Henry?"

"Well?"

"Then I'm built like a watch, don't you think I should have a few jewels?"

And then Henry frowned and said he took such compliments a woman is an idiot.

If no fight, no victory; no victory, no crown.—Swedenborg.

SEBREEZE, Dec. 21.— Mrs. Woodward, Mr. B. D. Woodward's mother arrived from Kansas City, Mo., Saturday afternoon, and will spend the winter with her family at Rose Castle on the Halifax.

Walter J. Gamble, wife and children, arrived from Curo, Mich., Friday afternoon, and will spend the winter at their home, on Halifax avenue. Everybody is glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Gamble back again.

Wm. Hatch and family, who were expected to arrive Friday afternoon, missed their connections at Sanford, and came in on a belated night train. The train was uncomfortably crowded with tourists, and returning home-sick.

Manager C. F. Burgess has added his forth to advertising by placing large bill boards at the three bridges, and in front of Wilsons opera house. We understand he has also bill-boarded Holly Hill and Ormond. The popular Park-setter has the most date of the opera house, December 28.

Doings at Daytona Beach

DAYTONA BEACH, Dec. 21.—Saturday A. J. Miller, real estate agent, closed a deal by which Walter Clark sold his cozy front property to Henry A. Ainsworth, of Moline, Ill. The consideration was $2,000. Mr. Clark's health has not been good for some time past and so he has business north that requires his attention he and Mrs. Clark may leave Florida before spring. Mr. and Mrs. Clark have many friends who will regret exceedingly to learn of their intended departure.

Little Miss Virginia Kurtz entertained six of her young lady friends, including their guests at Surf Crest, at a real tea, Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. The party was held in the sun parlor. Delicate and fruit were served, and the little folks enjoyed the occasion with the zest of beginners.

A number of new comers arrived on the S. Golnick line Saturday, generally tourists and hotel guests. Fishing and surf bathing is the order of the day for the tourist-seekers, who go into ecstasies over the wonderful sunshine and health of this atmosphere. They think we have it this way all the winter, "and we neither answer you nor say."

Mrs. Edgerton came over from Buenos Saturday, and her daughters, Misses Jessie and Lelia Sisler have left the Deland boarding school here, returned home with their mother Sunday.

Judge Cox and Mr. Shoemaker, prominent representatives of the Buckeye state, arrived Saturday with a party of five and were accorded a Surf Crest welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin, guests of Surf Crest, caught 26 fish from the ocean pier Saturday. They came from the Jersey coast and say they never have anything on this in the way of fishing and bathing.

Mrs. Mallory, daughter and little son, of Bowling Green, Ky., arrived on the S. Golnick Saturday afternoon and will have charge of the Mallory cottage on the Halifax, for the winter season.

Mr. Macready and party, friends of Mr. and Mrs. Livingston, arrived Saturday and will spend some time here.

J. C. Butler has sold his cozy cottage, on the N. V. Williams beach cottage property to Jacob Dexter and family, of New York.

At His Expense.

Miss Jones took me (last that hospital. She was built entirely at his expense. It is a credit to him." Well, Jack's uncle put him off with a hundred dollars and left the rest of his money to build the hospital.

On Heaven.

"If I could be out of physical pain," said a lifelong invalid, "I would ask no other heaven." "If I could be in a place where I might know that my husband never could be killed on the train!" cried one of the gentle "worriers" whose capacity for suffering is neither understood nor respected by the sanguine. "If I could take my children to a world where every time I hear a croupy cough my heart did not stand still with terror," urged another, "that would be heaven for me." The mulatto girl who burst into joyful tears at first sight of a marble bust of herself "because it was white" had a glimpse of her heaven before its time.

"Heaven must be like any other form of happiness, only 'more so,'" said a thoughtful man. "And the conditions of happiness are three—a clean conscience, something to do and some one to love."—Elizabeth Stuart Phelps in Harper's Bazar.

SEBREEZE, Dec. 21.— Mrs Woodwood, Mr. B. D. Woodward's mother, arrived from Kansas City, Mo., Saturday afternoon, and will spend the winter with her family at Rose Castle on the Halifax

Walter J. Gamble, wife and children, arrived from Caro, Mich., Friday afternoon, and will spend the winter at their home, on Halifax avenue. Everybody is glad to have Mr. and Mrs Gamble back again.

Wm. Hatch and family, who were expected to arrive Friday afternoon, missed their connection at Jacksonville, and came in on a belated night train. The train was uncomfortably crowded with tourists, and returning home-comers.

Manager C. F. Burgman shows his faith in advertising by placing large bill boards at the three bridges, and in front of Wilmans opera house. We understand he has also bill-boarded Holly Hill and Ormond. The popular Pickerts have the next date at the opera house, December 28.

The Harry G. Wilson Co. have hung a new sign at their office in the Knowlton block.

The Glenview is emphasizing its air of prosperity and up-to-dateness by taking on a fresh coat of white paint. H. G Wilson has a force of artists doing the manipulation work.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ralph Wilcox and Dr Bigelow spent Saturday and part of Sunday at the latter's home at Tomoka, going and returning in Mr. Wilcox's boat

Everybody is glad to have the auto bus in commission again, and it is quite the proper caper for tourists to swing around the circle to note the improvements of the past six or eight months.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Reed of New York City, arrived Friday afternoon, and are temporary sojourners at the Princess Issena.

The Christmas shoppers brought the ferry boat a good revenue the past week

Mr Farrell's handsome new Cadillac arrived Friday. A delegation of friends went with Mr. Farrell to the station The machine was ready to go as soon as released from the car, and the delegation rode home in fine style.

The little Racket Store, on Valley street, is being well stocked with Christmas goods.

London's Bridges.

Few people are aware of the extent to which the city of London is bridged over. In all, it seems, there are no fewer than seventy-five bridges. Of these nineteen are railway bridges, three are bridges over roads (such as Holborn viaducts), and fifty-three are bridges which connect private premises.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Doings at Daytona Beach

DAYTONA BEACH, Dec. 21.—Saturday A. I. Miller, real estate agent, closed a deal by which Walter Clark sold his river front property to Henry A. Ainsworth, of Moline, Ill.. The consideration was $5500. Mr. Clark's health has not been good for some time past, and as he has business north that requires his attention he and Mrs. Clark may leave Florida before spring. Mr. and Mrs. Clark have many friends who will regret exceedingly to learn of their intended departure.

Little Miss Virginia Kurtz entertained ten of her young lady friends, including four guests at Surf Crest, at a real tea, Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. The party was held in the sun parlor. Tea, cake and fruit were served, and the little folks enjoyed the occasion with the zest of beginners.

A number of new comers arrived on the 3 o'clock bus Saturday, generally roomers and hotel guests. Fishing and surf bathing is the order of the day for the tourist residents, who go into ecstacies over the wonderful sunshine and balm of the atmosphere. They think we have it this way all the winter, "and we neither answer yea nor nay."

Mrs. Edgerton came over from Bunnell Saturday, and her daughters, Misses Jennie and Lena, who have been attending school here, returned home with their mother Sunday

Judge Cox and Mr. Shoemaker, prominent representatives of the Buckeye state, arrived Saturday with a party of five and are located at Surf Crest.

Mr. and Mrs Martin, guests of Surf Crest caught 26 fish from the ocean pier Saturday. They come from the Jersey coast and say they never have anything half so fine in the way of fishing and bathing.

Mrs. Madison, daughter and little son, of Bowling Green, Ky., arrived on the 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon bus and have taken rooms at J. R. Wilcox's cottage on Seabreeze avenue.

Mr Maccado and party friends of Mr. and Mrs. Livingston, arrived Saturday and will spend some time here.

J. C. Butler, the real estate man, leased the H. Y. Stillman beach cottage Saturday to Jacob Dester and family, of New York.

At His Expense.

She—Jack told me that that hospital was built entirely at his expense. Is it possible? He—Well, Jack's uncle cut him off with a hundred dollars and left the rest of his money to build the hospital.

How many think to atone for the evil they have done by the good they intend to do and are only virtuous in prospective!—Eliot.

NEWS OF THE HOTELS

The Prince George.

The late arrivals at the Prince George are Mrs. Caroline Tyler, Boston Mass; Charles H. Goss, New York City.

The Ridgewood.

The arrivals at the Ridgewood over Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. F. Macrener, Chicago; Samuel Baruth, S. M. Mayhum, L. E. Goldsmith, New York.

Schmidt's Hotel.

Wm. Rendsburg and wife, of Astley, N. J., arrived at Schmidt's Hotel Saturday afternoon, and will spend the season here. Mr. and Mrs. Rendsburg were here last winter and made a visit to Cuba, but are satisfied to remain in Daytona this winter.

Other arrivals were Capt. Calvin C. Howes, Dennis, Mass.; C. Christiancy, Allandale; Theo. Topken, Otto J. Steffaim, Brooklyn; J. C. Vonder Voe, Wm. Allen, New York; A. G. Prine, Niagara Falls; J. B. Conrad, Glenwood; L. A. Walson, Jos Farman, G. C. Zarong, Jacksonville; D. P. Smith, G. H. Wurdman, New Smyrna; A. O. Andrews, M. Seligman, Atlanta.

Despland Hotel.

Brides and grooms are still appearing regularly at the Despland, Mr and Mrs. F. C. Rhodes, of Utica, N. Y., being the latest to arrive.

Other arrivals were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gordon, Miss Eleanor Gordon, Huntsville, Tenn.; J. A. Hollman, W. B. Owen, Jacksonville.

Thos. Dunn, a guest of the Despland, is something of a fisherman, and the Sunday morning breakfast at the hotel was made just right by the string he landed at the Keating Pier late Saturday afternoon.

Mrs James H. Cook, of Brooklyn, who arrived Thursday, has been coming here for twenty-seven years. When she began wintering here the place was a wilderness of palmettos and orange groves. She reached the place by a forty-mile stage drive, and lived across the river, coming over twice a week in a row boat to get the mail. The Palmetto House was the only hotel here at that time.

Electricity and Magnetism.

As to what electricity and magnetism are "in themselves"—that is to say, as to their real nature—nothing is known. They are absolute mysteries, baffling the acutest research into their inner, most secret ness. But about their modes of action it is possible to say something definite. For example, electricity appears to depend for its action upon a medium, while magnetism, like gravitation, acts as a distance and by means of no visible go-between. There two magnets in vacuo or even place a solid plate of glass or metal or wood between the magnets and we still find that their mutual action depends solely on their relative position and is not perceptibly modified by placing any substance between them unless that substance happens to be one of the magnetic metals. New York American.

Poultry Toilets.

"Now we will make this white hen's toilet."

And the pet stock dealer held beside a small fowl-like a box of cold cream, a bottle of bellflower, a couple of brushes, a pair of scissors and soap.

He bathed the hen in the tub. He sprinkled her feathers till they were smooth. Then he brushed her wings and tail, and put her away in a warm box.

"Time over," he said. "After she is quite dry I'll rub bellflower on one of those frizzled combs and her head. It is almost time now. I'll oil and polish her feet too. Then the red wattles will look as well. And soon that will deepen and redden the color of the beak. Altogether when I'm done with her she'll be as smooth and shiny and fair as though she were still in a well bandaged white enamel cloth."

"For exhibition chickens have those elaborate toilets always, much more than for mere ornamental fowls. In certain breeds I have seen the leg feathers curled at the ends with an electric iron one by one."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

10 Different Sets.

It is but seldom one finds, as Thackeray says, that a man has made almost an equal Edmund Yates, however, in his "Recollections and Experiences," relates one. "I was walking with Thackeray one evening from the club," writes Yates, "and passing a fish shop in New street, he noticed two different lots of oysters, one marked 'a shilling a dozen' and the other 'ls. 6d. a dozen.'

"'How they must hate each other!' said Thackeray."

A Prohibited Weapon.

Every traveler knows that there are certain restrictions upon the introduction of arms into foreign countries. Among the weapons which it is forbidden to take into France is the "tromblon," which is expressly mentioned in the Bengal code as a weapon the carrying and sale of which are not allowed. And yet the "tromblon" is not a firearm which is commonly seen nowadays, for it is nothing else than the blunderbuss, a weapon which old cavalcaders show to have been carried by the guards of marches as a protection against highwaymen and to have been hung over his fireplace by John Bull at the time of the scare of a Napoleonic invasion a hundred years ago. The blunderbuss had a short stock, a wide barrel and a muzzle like a trumpet, the bell mouth being designed to scatter the slugs with which the primitive piece was charged. Any one who buys one at an old curiosity shop had better take care how he introduces it into France, for the penalty for doing is a fine of 200 francs.—London Chronicle.

Took His Joke Seriously.

A funny incident occurred aboard one of our big battleships. While at anchor off some large city a delegation of ladies representing the W. C. T. U. came aboard and were shown the interested in all they saw. One of the visitors, spying the chit box for the wine mess, which was fastened up in the ward room, inquired what it was. A young officer, being facetiously inclined and not for one moment supposing that his joke would be taken seriously, told her it was a box for foreign silverone and that the officers were always glad to have all those who came aboard contribute. Nothing more was thought of the matter till the end of the month, when the box was opened and, to the astonishment of all, was found to contain $12.30. The dilemma was overcome by sending a check for the amount, together with a letter of explanation, to the secretary of the navy requesting that he have it forwarded through the proper channels to the cause for which it was contributed.—Army and Navy Life.

Interesting a Girl.

A Philadelphia man sent us a perused to his son and daughter-in-law a gold angle and with it the following letter:

"The woman on the face of this coin is for you, Clarence, because men usually like good looking women. The eagle on the reverse, with the shield on its legs, is for Lottie, because women are supposed to like birds and feathers.

"The 'E Pluribus Unum,' which you know is translated 'One of Many,' means that of the many of them you would like to have this is the only one you get.

"The thirteen stars, being an unlucky number, indicate the hard luck many of us have in our efforts to gather in the quantity of these coins we really have need for, but, then, the forty-six stars around the rim tell you that by working like 'forty' six days in the week you can probably accumulate enough to see you through."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Vain Pride.

"Well, how do you think this looks?" asks Mr. Blueberry, coming into his wife's boudoir while she is arranging her coiffure.

"How does what look?" she inquires in tones that are muffled by some hairpins she has between her lips.

"I got this temper to cover my bald spot. I'm always catching cold and"—

"Why, John James Blueberry! The very idea! Are you sick?" "I thought you were a man who was above such petty vanity. When a man becomes so self conscious of his looks it has nearly a suspicious appearance."

Whereupon Mr. Blueberry takes off the toupee and combs the four long locks of hair over his bald spot, and his wife continues to fix the perfectly lovely puffs that so enhance her beauty.—Chicago Post.

The Romans Invented Horsepower.

The Romans, among whom agriculture was a highly favored occupation, were an inventive race, especially in the matter of labor saving machinery. Recognizing the drudgery of hand mills, they invented those whose motive power was imparted by asses, mules and oxen, and introduced them into all the countries conquered by their victorious armies. There is no positive record of the name of the originator of this improvement in milling.

Shiftless.

Mrs. Borrow—Our neighbors are very shiftless people. Mr. Borrow—How do you know? Mrs. Borrow—When I go over to borrow anything they never have it.

Compensation.

Friend—If you have your own charges by the piece, it must be rather expensive. Young Housekeeper—Oh no! She loses so many things that her bills are never high!

Source of His Money.

"How did he lost his money?"

"His father-in-law failed."—London Illustrated Bits.

He Forged.

Trotter—When young Buffkin left college a few years ago, he declared he was going to forge his way to the front. Did he make good? Homer—As a forger—yes. He's now occupying a front row cell in the penitentiary.—Chicago News.

LOCAL ITEMS

A dance will be given at the Guild Hall Wednesday night.

The Mighty Amazon.

The estimated length of the Amazon from its source in the Andes in which it debouches in a month forty miles wide into the Atlantic is four miles. While the Atlantic is from eight to fifteen fathoms deep, for two hundred miles out to sea the water is perceptibly fresh. The Amazon could have had fresh water dipped by putting a bucket over the side but did not know where they were till they got in sight of the land. This mighty river, up which the tide goes 400 miles, is known in the upper part of its course near the Andes as the Marañon, then in the middle course, from Tabatinga to the mouth of its chief affluent, the Rio Negro, as the Solimoes, while for the rest of its course it bears the Amazonas or Amazon. A thousand miles from the sea, it is four miles in width. Vast and often impassable forests line most of its banks.

TRIFLES.

SUNSET that wander at will where the Lord was revealed
Little grows what joy can be got from a cowslip out of the field.
—Lord Tennyson.

A Prohibited Weapon.

Every traveler knows that there are certain restrictions upon the introduction of arms into foreign countries. Among the weapons which it is forbidden to take into France is the "trombion," which is expressly mentioned in the Bengal code as a weapon the carrying and sale of which are not allowed. And yet the "trombion" is not a firearm which is commonly used nowadays, for it is nothing else than the blunderbuss, a weapon which old caricatures show to have been carried by the guards of coaches as a protection against highwaymen and to have been hung over his fireplace by John Bull at the time of the scare of a Napoleonic invasion a hundred years ago. The blunderbuss had a flintlock, a short barrel and a muzzle like a trumpet, the bell mouth being designed to scatter the slugs with which the primitive piece was charged. Any one who buys one at an old curiosity shop had better take care how he introduces it into France, for the penalty for doing is a fine of 200 francs.—London Chronicle.

Took His Joke Seriously.

A funny incident occurred aboard one of our big battleships. While at anchor off some large city a delegation of ladies representing the W. C. T. U. came aboard and were much interested in all they saw. One of the visitors, spying the chit box for the wine mess, which was fastened up in the ward room, inquired what it was. A young officer, being facetiously inclined and not for one moment supposing that his joke would be taken seriously, told her it was a box for foreign missions and that the officers were always glad to have all those who came aboard contribute. Nothing more was thought of the matter till the end of the month, when the box was opened and, to the astonishment of all, was found to contain $12.30. The dilemma was overcome by sending a check for the amount, together with a letter of explanation, to the secretary of the navy requesting that he have it forwarded through the proper channel to the cause for which it was contributed.—Army and Navy Life.

Interpreting a Gift.

A Philadelphia man sent as a present to his son and daughter-in-law a gold eagle and with it the following letter:

"The woman on the face of this coin is for you, Clarence, because men usually like good looking women. The eagle on the reverse, with the feathers on its legs, is for Lottie, because women are supposed to like birds and feathers.

"The 'E Pluribus Unum,' which you know is translated 'One of Many,' means that of the many of them you would like to have this is the only one you get.

"The thirteen stars, being an unlucky number, indicate the hard luck many of us have in our efforts to gather in the quantity of these coins we really have need for, but, then, the forty-six stars around the rim tell you that by working like 'forty' six days in the week you can probably accumulate enough to see you through."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Vain Pride.

"Well, how do you think this looks?" asks Mr. Binderby, coming into his wife's boudoir while she is arranging her coiffure.

"How does what look?" she inquires in tones that are muffled by some hairpins she has between her lips.

"I got this toupee to cover my bald spot. I'm always catching cold and"—

"Why, John James Binderby! The very idea!" she exclaims. "I thought you were a man who was above such petty vanity. When a man becomes so self conscious of his looks it has really a suspicious appearance."

Whereupon Mr. Binderby takes off the toupee and combs the four long locks of hair over his bald spot, and his wife continues to pin on the perfectly lovely puffs that so enhance her beauty.—Chicago Post.

The Romans Invented Horsepower.

The Romans, among whom agriculture was a highly favored occupation, were an inventive race, especially in the matter of labor saving machines. Recognizing the drudgery of hand mills, they invented those whose motive power was imparted by asses, mules and oxen and introduced them into all the countries conquered by their victorious armies. There is no positive record of the name of the originator of this improvement in milling.

Shiftless.

Mrs. Borrow—Our neighbors are very shiftless people. Mr. Borrow—How do you know? Mrs. Borrow—When I go over to borrow anything they never have it.

Compensation.

Friend—If your washerwoman charges by the piece, it must be rather expensive. Young Housekeeper—Oh, no! She loses so many things that her bills are never high!

Source of His Money.

"How did he lost his money?"

"His father-in-law failed."—London Illustrated Bits.

He Forged.

Trotter—When young Biffkins left college a few years ago, he declared he was going to forge his way to the front. Did he make good? Homer—As a forger—yes. He's now occupying a front row cell in the penitentiary.—Chicago News.

The Mighty Amazon.

The estimated length of the Amazon from its source in the Andes to where it debouches in a mouth forty miles wide into the Atlantic is 4,000 miles. The story is told of a wrecked vessel which was drifting, with her crew on board suffering intense torment for lack of fresh water, which entered the mouth of the Amazon and the sufferers could have had fresh water simply by putting a bucket over the side but did not know where they were until they got in sight of the land. This mighty river, up which the tide goes 400 miles, is known in the upper part of its course near the Andes as the Maranon, then in the middle course, from Tabatinga to the mouth of its chief affluent, the Rio Negro, as the Solimoes, while for the rest of its course its name is Amazonas or Amazon. A thousand miles from the sea it is four miles in width. Vast and often impassable forests line most of its banks.

NEWS OF THE HOTELS

The Prince George.

The late arrivals at the Prince George are Mrs. Caroline Tyler, Boston Mass; Charles M. Goss, New York City.

The Ridgewood.

The arrivals at the Ridgewood over Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. E. Marrener, Chicago; Samuel Barutti, S. M. Maybum, L. E. Goldsmith, New York.

Schmidt's Hotel.

Wm. Rendsburg and wife, of Ardley, N. J., arrived at Schmidt's Hotel Saturday afternoon, and will spend the season here. Mr. and Mrs. Rendsburg were here last winter and made a visit to Cuba, but are satisfied to remain in Daytona this winter.

Other arrivals were Capt. Calvin C. Howes, Dennis, Mass.; C. Christiancy, Allandale; Theo. Topken, Otto J. Steffalum, Brooklyn; J. C. Vonder Voe, Wm. Allen, New York; A. G. Prime, Niagara Falls; J. B. Conrad, Glenwood; L. A. Walson, Joe Earman, G. C. Zaring, Jacksonville; D. P. Smith, G. H. Werfman, New Smyrna; A. O. Andrews, M. Seligman, Atlanta.

Despland Hotel.

Brides and grooms are still appearing regularly at the Despland, Mr. and Mrs. F. C Rhodes, of Utica, N. Y., being the latest to arrive.

Other arrivals were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gordon, Miss Eleanor Gordon, Hazardville, Conn.; J. A Hollman, W. B. Owen, Jacksonville.

Theo. Dunn, a guest of the Despland, is something of a fisherman, and the Sunday morning breakfast at the hotel was made just right by the string he caught at the Keating Pier late Saturday afternoon.

Mrs James H. Cook, of Brooklyn, who arrived Thursday, has been coming here for twenty-seven years. When she began wintering here the place was a wilderness of palmettos and orange groves. She reached the place by a forty-mile stage drive, and lived across the river, coming over twice a week in a row boat to get the mail. The Palmetto House was the only hotel here at that time.

Electricity and Magnetism.

As to what electricity and magnetism are "in themselves"—that is to say, as to their real nature—nothing is known. They are absolute mysteries, baffling the acutest research into their innermost secrets. But about their modes of action it is possible to say something definite. For example, electricity appears to depend for its action upon a medium, while magnetism, like gravity, acts at a distance and by means of no visible go-between. Place two magnets in vacuo or even place a solid plate of glass or metal or wood between the magnets and we still find that their mutual action depends solely on their relative position and is not perceptibly modified by placing any substance between them unless that substance happens to be one of the magnetic metals.—New York American

Poultry Toilets.

"Now we will make this white hen's toilet."

And the pet stock dealer laid beside a small bathtub a box of cold cream, a bottle of brilliantine, a couple of brushes, a chamois, towels and soap.

He bathed the hen in the tub. He scrubbed her feathers till they were snowy. Then he toweled her, wrapped her up and put her away in a warm box.

"Tomorrow," he said, "after she is quite dry I'll rub brilliantine on one of these brushes and polish her coat till it shines like satin. I'll oil and polish her feet too. Her face and wattles I'll rub well with cold cream—that will deepen and enrich the color, the bloom. Altogether, when I'm done with her she'll be as smooth and shiny and immaculate as a new silk hat or a well laundered white evening shirt.

"For exhibitions chickens have these elaborate toilets always—much more elaborate ones sometimes. In certain breeds I have seen the leg feathers being curled with an electric iron one by one."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

In Different Sets.

It is but seldom, one imagines, that a good joke is made about an oyster. Edmund Yates, however, in his "Recollections and Experiences," relates one. "I was walking with Thackeray one evening from the club," writes Yates, "and, passing a fish shop in New street, he noticed two different tubs of oysters, one marked '1 shilling a dozen' and the other '1s. 3d. a dozen.'

"'How they must hate each other!' said Thackeray."

AN EYE WITNESS IN HAINES CASE

Gives a Wealth of Details Not Heretofore Recited - Strengthens the Prosecution.

(By United Press.)

FLUSHING, L. I., Dec. 21.—Given with a wealth of detail that have been lacking from recitals of other preceding witnesses in this trial Chas. W. Roberts, eye witness to the killing of Wm. Annis by Captain Peter C. Haines, recited his story of the tragedy here today and greatly strengthened the prosecution's case against Thornton J. Haines. He swore he tried to go to Annis' aid with firing of first shot only to be relieved back by Thornton Haines at the point of a revolver.

He insisted that both Captain and Thornton Haines were cool and collected after the tragedy.

District Attorney Darrin said today that Mrs. Claudia Haines will not ag[ain] be called as a witness in the case.

Thaw Case Affirmed.

(By United Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—In an opinion handed down today, the United States Court of Appeals affirmed the order of the District Court in the case of Harry K. Thaw.

Taft is Satisfied.

(By United Press.)

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 21.—President-elect Taft today reiterated his belief that the lock system for the Panama canal is best and declared he was not going to Panama with the idea of abandoning President Roosevelt's idea for the sea level plan.

Miss Lily Mahbette, who has been teaching at Fort Florida on the St. Johns river about eight miles from Enterprise, returned home Saturday to spend the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Mahbette, at the Rosedale on South Palmetto avenue.

Frank A. W. Brown, of Oshkosh, Wis., arrived in the city recently and is located in the Daytona apartment house on South Palmetto avenue. Mr. Brown will be joined by Mrs. Brown some time early in the new year.

Two handsome century plants in the grounds of the C. G. Burgoyne property on North Beach street have thrown their massive blossom stalks many feet into the air, preparatory to blooming and, like the swan after its song, passing away.

Claude Smith, wife and son, are here from Jacksonville to spend the holidays with Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, of North Ridgewood avenue.

A Rather Novel Complaint.

An English traveler once met a countess sitting in a state of the most woeful despair and apparently near the last agonies by the side of one of the mountain lakes of Switzerland. He inquired the cause of his sufferings. "Oh," said the latter, "I was very hot and thirsty and took a large draft of the clear water of the lake and then sat down on this stone to consult my guidebook. To my astonishment, I found that the water of this lake is very poisonous! Oh, I am a gone man; I feel it running all over me. I have only a few minutes to live! Remember me to"—

"Let me see the guidebook," said his friend. Turning to the passage, he found, "Clean do like eat; later poisonous." (The water of this lake abounds in fish).

"Is that the meaning of it?"

"Certainly."

The dying man looked up with a radiant countenance. "What would have become of you," said his friend, "if I had not met you?"

"I should have died of imperfect knowledge of the French language."

A Great Man's Simple Speech.

I was lately told a delightful story of a great statesman staying with a humble and anxious host who had invited a party of simple and unimportant people to meet the great man. The statesman came in late for dinner and was introduced to the party. He made a series of old fashioned bows in all directions, but no one felt in a position to offer any observations. The great man at the conclusion of the ceremony turned to his host and said in tones that had often thrilled a listening senate: "What very convenient hour you have in your household. They part well." The social frost broke up, the company was delighted to find that the great man was interested in mundane matters of a kind on which every one might be permitted to have an opinion, and the conversation, starting from the humblest conveniences of daily life, merited inevitably into more liberal subjects.—Arthur C. Benson in Putnam's and the Reader.

PERSECUTION OF THE JEWISH RACE

APPALLING IS THE LOSS OF LIFE.

(By United Press.)

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 21.—Fighting direct action upon ancient and obsolete anti-semitic statutes, the Russian authorities of Finland have inaugurated a wholesale persecution of Jews and are driving them from their homes into the fields to starve and freeze. Reports of terrible suffering and appalling loss of life come from all parts of the disturbed country.

A PRETTY WEDDING ON NORTH BEACH STREET.

* * *

Hands and Hearts of H. Eugene Johnson and Miss Anna Nouchette A. Wilson United.

A very pretty wedding took place Sunday evening at the Riverside, the home of the bride's parents, 609 North Beach street when H. Eugene Johnson and Miss Anna Nouchette Wilson were united in marriage.

The ceremony occurred in the large parlor of the Riverside, the three archs of which were artistically decorated with vines, holly and other greens, the young couple standing beneath a wedding bell composed of lilies and lauristinus.

Rev. B. F. Marsh, pastor of the First Congregational church, performed the ceremony, assisted by the bride's father, Rev. J. L. Wilson, who also gave the bride away.

The bride on the arm of her father approached from the stairway at the front of the parlor, preceded by the flower girls, little Allene O'Brien and Lizzie Johnson, scattering violets, and Miss Hazel Stilling, maid of honor, and were met beneath the bell by the groom and his brother, Ernest Johnson, who acted as best man.

Only intimate friends of the family were present and after the ceremony all repaired to the dining room where the wedding supper was served, the table being beautifully decorated with red roses and ferns, the floral arrangement here, as in the parlor, being the work of George Walsh.

The young people are well known here and the best wishes of the community go forth to them for all happiness and success in their married life.

They have gone to housekeeping at the groom's place of business on North Beach street, where he had fitted up a cozy nest for his bride.

Miss Lillian Bingham will leave home from Rollins College to spend the holidays with her father, C. M. Bingham, of Orange avenue.

AN EYE WITNESS IN HAINES CASE

Gives a Wealth of Details Not Heretofore Recited – Strengthens the Prosecution.

(By United Press.)

FLUSHING, L. I., Dec. 21.—Given with a wealth of detail that have been lacking from recitals of other preceding witnesses in this trial Chas. W. Roberts, eye witness to the killing of Wm. Annis by Captain Peter C. Haines, recited his story of the tragedy here today and greatly strengthened the prosecution's case against Thornton J. Haines. He swore he tried to go to Annis' aid with firing of first shot only to be driven back by Thornton Haines at the point of the revolver.

He insisted that both Captain and Thornton Haines were cool and collected after the tragedy

District Attorney Darrin said today that Mrs. Claudia Haines will not again be called as a witness in the case.

Thaw Case Affirmed.

(By United Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—In an opinion handed down today, the United States Court of Appeals affirmed the order of the District Court in the case of Harry K. Thaw.

Taft is Satisfied.

[By United Press.]

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 21.—President-elect Taft today reiterated his belief that the lock system for the Panama canal is best and declared he was not going to Panama with the idea of abandoning President Roosevelt's idea for the sea level plan.

Miss Lily Mabbette, who has been teaching at Fort Florida on the St Johns river about eight miles from Enterprise, returned home Saturday to spend the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I M. Mabbette, at the Rosedale on South Palmetto avenue.

Frank A. W. Brown, of Oshkosh, Wis., arrived in the city recently and is located in the Daytona apartment house on South Palmetto avenue. Mr. Brown will be joined by Mrs. Brown some time early in the new year.

Two handsome century plants in the grounds of the C. G. Burgoyne property on North Beach street have thrown their mast-like blossom stalks many feet into the air, preparatory to blooming and, like the swan after its song, passing away.

Claude Smith, wife and son, are here from Jacksonville to spend the holidays with Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, of North Ridgewood avenue.

A Rather Novel Complaint.

An English traveler once met a companion sitting in a state of the most woeful despair and apparently near the last agonies by the side of one of the mountain lakes of Switzerland. He inquired the cause of his sufferings. "Oh," said the latter, "I was very hot and thirsty and took a large draft of the clear water of the lake and then sat down on this stone to consult my guidebook. To my astonishment, I found that the water of this lake is very poisonous! Oh, I am a gone man; I feel it running all over me. I have only a few minutes to live! Remember me to"—

"Let me see the guidebook," said his friend. Turning to the passage, he found, "L'eau du lac est bien poissoneuse" (The water of this lake abounds in fish).

"Is that the meaning of it?"

"Certainly."

The dying man looked up with a radiant countenance. "What would have become of you," said his friend, "if I had not met you?"

"I should have died of imperfect knowledge of the French language."

A Great Man's Simple Speech.

I was lately told a delightful story of a great statesman staying with a humble and anxious host who had invited a party of simple and unimportant people to meet the great man. The statesman came in late for dinner and was introduced to the party. He made a series of old fashioned bows in all directions, but no one felt in a position to offer any observations. The great man at the conclusion of the ceremony turned to his host and said in tones that had often thrilled a listening senate: "What very convenient jugs you have in your bedrooms. They pour well." The social frost broke up, the company was delighted to find that the great man was interested in mundane matters of a kind on which every one might be permitted to have an opinion, and the conversation, starting from the humblest conveniences of daily life, melted insensibly into more liberal subjects.—Arthur C. Benson in Putnam's and the Reader.

PERSECUTION OF THE JEWISH RACE

Is Being Vigorously Waged by the Russians Under Warrant of Obsolete Statute.

APPALLING IS THE LOSS OF LIFE.

(By United Press.)

ST PETERSBURG, Dec. 21.—Pressing their action upon ancient and obsolete anti-semitic statutes, the Russian authorities of Finland have inaugurated a wholesale persecution of Jews and are driving them from their homes into the fields to starve and freeze. Reports of terrible suffering and appalling loss of life come from all parts of the dependency.

A PRETTY WEDDING ON NORTH BEACH STREET.

Hands and Hearts of H. Eugene Johnson and Miss Anna Nouchette A. Wilson United.

A very pretty wedding took place Sunday evening at the Riverside the home of the bride's parents, on North Beach street when H. Eugene Johnson and Miss Anna Nouchette Allene Wilson were united in marriage.

The ceremony occurred in the large parlor of the Riverside, the three arches of which were artistically decorated with vines, holly and other greens, the young couple standing beneath a wedding bell composed of vines and nasturtiums.

Rev. B. F. Marsh, pastor of the First Congregational church, performed the ceremony, assisted by the bride's father, Rev. J. L. Wilson, who also gave the bride away.

The bride on the arm of her father approached from the stairway at the front of the parlor, preceded by the flower girls, little Allene O'Brien and Lucile Johnson, scattering violets, and Miss Hazel Stiling, maid of honor, and were met beneath the bell by the groom and his brother, Ernest Johnson, who acted as best man.

Only intimate friends of the family were present and after the ceremony all repaired to the dining room where the wedding supper was served, the table being beautfully decorated with red roses and ferns, the tasteful arrangement here, as in the parlor, being the work of George Walton.

The young people are well known here and the best wishes of the community go forth to them for all happiness and success in their married life.

They have gone to housekeeping at the groom's place of business on North Beach street, where he had fitted up a cosy nest for his bride.

Miss Lillian Bingham will be home from Rollins College to spend the holidays with her father, C. M. Bingham, of Orange avenue.
